

Brew Tech High School's Plagiarism Procedures

Plagiarism results from a failure to credit the source of ideas or from changing the language of another in attempt to make the thoughts appear to be one's own. For a Brew Tech student, plagiarism is completely unacceptable.

Specific examples of plagiarism include the following:

1. Copying whole essays written by others
2. "Cutting and pasting" selected sentences and phrases from another source without using both quotation marks and a reference page
3. Paraphrasing or summarizing another's original work that is not common knowledge without giving appropriate credit (parenthetical documentation and a reference page)

In short, turning in any assignment that is not the student's own creation is plagiarism. If a student is discovered to have plagiarized, he will receive a zero on the assignment as well as an office referral. Furthermore, any student allowing another student to copy work will receive the same consequences.
